Project Overview

This project will motivate students to embark upon an eight week journey into the exciting world of business. Sure, everyone wants to make money but what needs to happen behind the scenes in order for a business to be successful? This common core project can be utilized to motivate students in grades 3-5 to study the business plan process, read through the Lemonade War novel and learn social studies and mathematics principles in the process. In the end, students will be invited to participate in their very own mock Shark Tank event to see if their product has what it takes to be the next big idea sure to hit store shelves around the country.

While I recommend at least eight weeks to fully implement “Successful Studentpreneurs”, the timeline and material can be modified to best meet the needs of your students. You might look at this project as a wonderful supplemental unit to accompany your math unit of study, character development or even team building project; either way, my students have found it to be fun, engaging and most of all, satisfying as many were able to understand all of the hard work it takes to build a successful business.

As always, I welcome any questions, concerns or comments you might have about this project. In my experience, helping the students learn, without knowing they’re learning is the best. This project has helped me to do just that!

Goals and Objectives

The goals and objectives of this project centered on economic principles; primarily, buying and selling goods. The project itself can be modified to be as specialized or extensive as you’d like. These are the goals and objectives I used when implementing this study in my classroom.

Goals

1. Students will understand what it means to be an entrepreneur and be able to state what an entrepreneur does.
2. Students will read and study the novel, “The Lemonade War” by Jacqueline Davies, placing emphasis on the opposing business strategies of Jessie and Evan.
3. Students will create a personal business plan and present it to their peers through a multimedia presentation.
4. Students will learn about entrepreneurs who created businesses of their own.
5. Students will create their own marketing plan for their potential business.
6. Students will participate in a Shark Tank culminating event in which “potential investors” will choose from their businesses and name three they would invest in.

Objectives

1. Students will define the following vocabulary terms:
   a. Entrepreneur
   b. Product
   c. Customer Service
   d. Start Up Costs
   e. Advertising
   f. Business Plan
   g. Profit
   h. Selling Points
2. Students will identify the steps within a business plan and give an example.
3. Students will correctly answer comprehension chapter questions for the novel, Lemonade War by Jacqueline Davies.
4. Students will define key vocabulary in the novel and state examples of each. (Vocabulary is listed at the start of each chapter).
5. Students will define the characters in the novel, and compare and contrast each lemonade business.
6. Students will identify the theme, problem and solution in the novel.
7. Students will create a business plan using an original idea for a business.
8. Students will collaborate with peers to revise, edit and publish their business plans using a multimedia presentation format.
9. Students will create marketing plans for their businesses and identify potential investors.
10. Students will present their business plans using visuals and an oral presentation to investors.

This project will entice your students to be creative in understanding their own talents and abilities; utilizing them to create their own business.

Aside from the knowledge gained, students will be challenged to be independent thinkers, give convincing oral presentations and utilize technology to communicate their ideas.

As a bonus, they’ll understand how professionalism plays a role in the networking of your business.
Course Overview

The purpose of this project is to inform students on the steps needed to successfully create a business plan. During these first few weeks, students will be introduced to kids who have created their own successful business and discuss what motivated them to create a product or service. This phase includes a business pretest to evaluate student familiarity and knowledge with appropriate vocabulary and business plan steps as well as the possible areas of need to brainstorm student business ideas. By the end of the second week, students will have created a business idea they think would be successful to market and implement.

The next few weeks will transition into a study of the novel, The Lemonade War by Jacqueline Davies. Depending upon the reading level of the students, an audio book can be used particularly for ELL (English Language Learner) students, in order to comprehend chapter understanding. A novel study packet was purchased and used through Teachers pay Teachers to analyze the characters, business practices and calculation of lemonade costs, profits and marketing strategies. There are several good units of study available. I chose to purchase:

The Lemonade War Book Companion (comp. questions, response journal, lap book) by Funky Fresh Firsties (current cost $6.25)

I chose this particular resource because of the short comprehension questions, the inclusion of a response journal (as I am BIG on writing with my students) and the lap book feature. We do a lot of foldables in my classroom (as I have quite a few ELL students) and I love the print rich format.

I also chose to purchase this resource from Teachers Pay Teachers as a final test for the novel it includes vocabulary and comprehension questions through a variety of formats (multiple choice, open-ended response, fill in the blank, etc.). Why reinvent the wheel when it’s already done?

The Lemonade War Final Test by Deana Jones
https://www.teacherspayteachers.com/Product/The-Lemonade-War-Final-Test-1123205

After reading the novel, students were divided into two teams to analyze business strategies and debated on which strategy was most successful in the lemonade war (either Jessie’s or Evan’s).

The third phase (also two weeks) transitioned into looking at business from various informational texts. Students were grouped (according to business idea area such as product, service, retail, etc.) and given an informational text to analyze on the subject of kids in business. Each group further developed their business plan by analyzing their business plan, looking at possible investors for their idea, marketing idea possibilities and creating a marketing plan.
The fourth phase of the final two weeks included creating a sales pitch for their idea and presenting it at a mock shark tank event held in the classroom. Teacher “investors” were invited to listen to the sales pitch of the students and decide which ideas would be most profitable. Students then received awards for their creativity, business plans, marketing ideas, sales pitch presentations and finally, the investors’ best choices for profitable products.

Lesson Plans

Lesson One: What is an entrepreneur?

Objectives:

Students will be exposed to the following vocabulary terms and be able to correctly name and define at least two terms.

- a. Entrepreneur
- b. Product
- c. Customer Service
- d. Start Up Costs
- e. Advertising
- f. Business Plan
- g. Profit

Standards: (Grades 3-5) LAFS.RI.1.1; LAFS.RI.2.4; LAFS.RI.3.7; LAFS.RI.3.9; LAFS.W.3.7; LAFS.SS.E.1.2; LAFS.SS.E.1.3

Materials Needed:

Successful Studentpreneur Pretest; Introduction to Entrepreneur PowerPoint Presentation;

Procedures:

Students will first be asked to take the Successful Studentpreneur Pretest (grade later for data to be used to evaluate student understanding once the unit is completed). Once that is finished, students will be introduced to the world of entrepreneurs through a PowerPoint presentation (which can also be imported to Active Inspire if you utilize a Promethean Board in your classroom©). Go through the presentation with your students to discuss the vocabulary words and steps of a business plan. While you are giving the lesson, ask students to take notes in their Reading IANs (or notepaper) for future reference. Have the students reflect on their own responses to the Pretest. Discuss with the students that they will be embarking on an 8 week study of what it means to start your own business and how each of them will finish the unit by pitching their very own business idea to potential investors. Finish off by having the students brainstorm possible business ideas they might like to implement.

Evaluation: Observation, Pretest score for Overall Unit and note taking in their Reading IANs.

Standards: (Grades 3–5) LAFS.RI.1.1; LAFS.RI.2.4; LAFS.RI.3.7; LAFS.RI.3.9; LAFS.W.3.7; LAFS.SS.E.1.2; LAFS.SS.E.1.3

Materials Needed:

Student Interest Inventory; Several books with examples of Kid Entrepreneurs

Procedures:

Students will review the key vocabulary terms from lesson one: entrepreneur, product and business plan. After reviewing the terms, play the video of ABC News’s shark tank Kids Edition: http://abcnews.go.com/GMA/video/shark-tank-life-kid-preneurs-edition-28427763

In this episode, two specific businesses are introduced as ideas kids created. Students will use the Shark Tank Kids Edition Graphic Organizer to take notes in their Reading IAN while watching the presentation. After watching the video, we’ll discuss the student responses as a class. We’ll focus on what helped the students START their business. Often businesses are born out of hobbies the kids have, things they like or just an idea they feel passionate about. Ask the students to take a minute to think about things they feel passionate about and list them on the opposite page of their Reading IAN. Tell them if they can’t think of anything, you have a tool to help them. The Student Business Interest Inventory can then be administered in order for students to see what they enjoy doing or what they like best. This tool will then help them to create a few ideas of what kind of business they might want to create. After they take the inventory, students will be grouped to look at books and materials with examples of kid businesses. These too can serve as inspiration for the kids. After giving the groups time to analyze the texts, have them write their top three business ideas on index cards to be used during the next lesson.

Evaluation: Observation, Participation, Note taking in their Reading IANs and Index Cards.

Lesson Three: Understanding the Business Plan

Objectives:

Students will be exposed to the following vocabulary terms and be able to correctly name and define at least two terms.

- Entrepreneur
- Product
- Customer Service
- Start Up Costs
- Advertising
- Business Plan
- Profit
- Selling Points

- Students will identify the steps within a business plan and create their own plan for a business idea.

Standards: (Grades 3-5) LAFS.RI.1.1; LAFS.RI.2.4; LAFS.RI.3.7; LAFS.RI.3.9; LAFS.W.3.7; LAFS.SS.E.1.2; LAFS.SS.E.1.3

Materials Needed:

Book, Kidpreneurs: Young Entrepreneurs with Big Ideas! By Adam and Matthew Toren (www.kidpreneurs.org)

Anchor Chart with the Business Plan Outline (created from the Mini Version)

Procedures:

Students will be introduced to the business plan during this session. After they have filled out the Student Business Interest Inventory, they will partner with a classmate and present their answers to each other. Partners will then help their fellow classmate “brainstorm” possible businesses based on the interests and hobbies they indicated. Using the Anchor Chart, the business plan will be explained in detail, including all of the steps and decisions that must be made before setting up a business. Copies will be distributed of student business plans (Chapter 4 samples from the book, Kidpreneurs: Young Entrepreneurs with Big Ideas). After looking at a sample, students will begin to draft their own business plan by deciding the following areas: description, target audience, hours of operation, start-up costs, selling points, advertising and price. If time permits, students will then regroup with their partner to present their business plan. Partners will be asked to evaluate the plan on the following points:

- Is this plan feasible? Why or why not?
- Who might want to invest in this plan?
- Will this new business benefit anyone? If so, who?

Evaluation: A Language Arts grade may be given to the student’s business plan based on their creativity, grammar and overall descriptiveness of their business.
Business Plan Anchor Chart

Description: In a few sentences, tell the name, focus and overall idea behind your business. Be sure to include basic information that might answer someone’s concerns about your business.

Example: Too Happy Tutoring is a great part-time business that will tutor kindergarten through second grade students in Reading and Math. Because the tutoring services will be provided by students aged 10 through 15, an adult will always be present to assist but fees will be affordable so parents can afford the service.

Target Audience: Who are you hoping to service with your business?

Example: Young students in grades K-2 who are struggling in math and reading; their parents who cannot afford expensive tutoring services.

Hours of Operation: What days and times will your business be operational?

Example: Mondays thru Thursdays from 4:00 until 6:00 pm.

Start up Costs: The amount of money it will take to begin your business

Example: Tutoring books, supplies (pencils, paper, etc.), advertising costs (print flyers for distribution)

Selling Points: What makes your business unique and different? Why should customers choose your business over another that offers the same service?

Example: Older students can relate well to young kids; only tutors highly recommended by teachers will be chosen to participate; affordable since you aren’t paying for an expensive teacher.

Advertising: How will you tell others about your business?

Example: flyer will be printed and distributed at school and in my neighborhood.

Price: How much will you charge for the service?

Tutors will require Fifteen dollars an hour for their services.
Student Business Plan Outline

Use this outline to record basic information about your business. Remember to think about how your business is unique and will benefit others. This is just a draft of your business and can be changed as needed.

This novel study will also serve as a compare/contrast tool.

Follow up Questions:

- Students will define key vocabulary in the novel and state examples of each. (vocabulary is listed at the start of each chapter).
- Students will define the characters in the novel, and compare and contrast each lemonade business.
- Students will identify the theme, problem and solution in the novel.

Materials Needed: Class set of The Lemonade War by Jacqueline Davies; Teachers Pay Teachers Resource: The Lemonade War Book Companion (comp. questions, response journal, lap book) by Funky Fresh Firsties (current cost $6.25)

Procedures:

The focus of this lesson is the vocabulary embedded throughout this novel. Of the business vocabulary utilized, students may already be familiar with one or more of the terms (as they were already covered in the unit study) however, they all deserve a closer look. In addition, Jessie’s Bright Ideas are also chronicled throughout the novel and also should be focused on in order to benefit the business plan process students are embarking upon. For that reason, the comprehension questions and journal response during these chapters will be encouraged and reviewed, but the shift will move towards the vocabulary and bright ideas tips. Students can record vocabulary as they go in their Reading IANs (if they have one) or in the vocabulary sheet provided. The Lemonade War Book Companion includes vocabulary posters which can be utilized throughout the novel review for students to focus on.

Students will be grouped into groups of three/four students and will record vocabulary covered in the novel. They will also answer why each of the chapters was titled with the particular business term (up to Chapter 10). Students will discuss predictions about how the novel will end and which character they deem to have the best business strategy and why. Discussion should also take place on what mistakes each entrepreneur made when handling their business.

Evaluation: Observation, participation, Possible Vocabulary Test Grade for L.A.

Lesson Seven: Taking the Business Plan to the Digital Level

Goals/Objectives:

Students will create their own marketing plan for their potential business.

Students will collaborate with peers to revise, edit and publish their business plans using a multimedia presentation format.

Students will create marketing plans for their businesses and identify potential investors.

Prior to Lesson: Students should have a brief introduction of basic PowerPoint skills in order to create their Business Plan.

Standards: (Grades 3-5) LAFS.3.SL.1.1; LAFS.3.SL.2.4; LAFS.3.SL.2.5; LAFS.3.SL.2.6; LAFS.3.W.1.2; LAFS.3.W.2.4; LAFS.3.W.2.5; LAFS.3.W.3.7

Materials Needed: Students’ Current Business Plans, Index Cards (at least 10 per student) to be utilized for slide presentation planning, computers with PowerPoint access, jump drives for students to save projects

Procedures:

Students will be given their current business plans and be asked to be any revisions based on what they learned from the novel, The Lemonade War. Utilizing the example of the tutoring company (example from the anchor chart utilized in lesson three), one could argue that changing the price of tutoring would be a good idea since the cost of gas to arrive to the location is necessary, plus a possible stationary location such as a public library or soccer field might be best. Also, a quick survey might be utilized in a classroom with K-2nd grade students to see if there is a need for more affordable tutoring could be beneficial. After all, businesses with demand will be most successful in the long run. Students will be sat in two rows facing each other and be given 3 minutes to present their idea to the person across from them. That person will then have 2 minutes to give them feedback. They will then shift to the next person (similar to the format of speed dating) for another round and finally, one more round. At the end of the exercise, they will have at least three classmates who have given them feedback.

Students will be asked to go back to their seats and tweak their plans to address any concerns. Once they are satisfied, they will begin to put together a PowerPoint presentation where they will have to include ALL of the aspects of the business plan. Index cards may be utilized to plan the bestselling points in each area, which can then be translated into the PowerPoint. The presentations may be started at school and asked to be completed for homework if your class has access to computers with PowerPoint at home. Students will then be told of the final Shark Tank event where “investors” will be invited to hear the student presentations and pick the top three they would invest in. Finally, students will be asked to brainstorm possible investors to tailor their presentations to individuals who might be most interested in their business. Students will be asked to dress in business attire the day of the event.

Evaluation: Observation, participation, and presentation skills practice.
Lesson Eight: Lights! Camera! Action! It's Shark Tank JR.!

Goals/Objectives:

Students will participate in a Shark Tank culminating event in which “potential investors” will choose from their businesses and name three they would invest in.

Students will present their business plans using visuals and an oral presentation to investors.

Prior to Day’s Events: Choose and invite three “guests” to your classroom. They may be teachers or volunteers but ask them to dress in suits and play the role of investors coming to hear which businesses they should invest in.

Standards: (Grades 3-5) LAFS.3.SL.1.1; LAFS.3.SL.2.4; LAFS.3.SL.2.5; LAFS.3.SL.2.6; LAFS.3.W.1.2; LAFS.3.W.2.4; LAFS.3.W.2.5; LAFS.3.W.3.7

Materials Needed: Student presentations, Multimedia Projector Device (Computer & LCD Projector or Smart Board/Promethean Board) for presentations, Shark Tank Jr. Scoring Sheet, Peer Evaluation, Successful Studentpreneur Post Test and Awards to give students.

Procedures:

Students will be notified ahead of time the order in which they will present to the investors. Prior to the day’s events, students should practice their presentations utilizing presenting voices, posture and of course, looking their best! Each presenter will be allowed a set time limit to present their idea to the investors (example: 5 minutes). The investors will grade the students on the following:

1. Creativity of Business Proposal
2. Overall need for the Business in the Community
3. Professionalism of the presentation

Investors will use the Shark Tank Jr. Scoring Sheet to rate presenters (for a maximum total score of 75 points) and finally, awards will be given for various areas such as most creative, most enthusiastic presenter, most sensitive to the needs of the community, etc. (the point is to try to give each student an award and acknowledgement). Finally, based on the scores, the top three ideas will be awarded a special prize and acknowledged.

As a follow up, students will be asked to retake the Successful Studentpreneur Pre/Post Test to see the growth in the student’s understanding of business terminology and the overall business plan process.

Evaluation: Observation and participation
